The Memphis and Little Rock railroad company, as reorganized, R. H. Dow, Wat-son Mathews, and Wm. S. Purson, yesterday filed their injunction bill in the chancery interesting. The complainant claims that it is a corporation created and organized under a charter from the State of Arkansas. Its importance to the property of the city of Memphis induced the city of Memphis to subscribe three hundred thousand dollars stock, for which it issued its bonds, indorsed by the State of Tennessee. The city of Mem-phis also further indorsed three hundred and lifty thousand dollars of the company's bonds. to secure which a mortgage was made of the navy-yard property. Soon after its organization, for the purpose of building the road, zation, for the purpose of building the road, a mortgage was made on its road-bed, right of way, etc., to Sam Tate, R. C. Brinkley and George C. Watkins, to secure one million three hundred thousand dollars of bonds. This was on May 1, 1860, On the first of March, 1871, the war having prevented its completion, and a great portion of the road having to be rebuilt, a second deed was made to H. F. Vail, trustee, to secure another million of its bonds. This enabled a completion of the road. During 1872, under a contract with the city of Memphis, a depot was built and right of way secured to the river on this side, an incline built and a transfer-boat put in operation by W. B. Greenlaw and others, thus forming direct railroad communication between Memphis and Little Rock. October 11, 1872, M. M. Buck attached the depot-buildings, track, cars, incline and the trans-fer-boat, all of which were subsequently re-plevied by the various parties in interest, and all of which proceedings are claimed to have been void and of no effect in law, because of certain irregularities in the attachment suit and levy. On March 17, 1873, the road and its franchises were sold and conveyed to Mr. Mr. Stillman Wicks, representing the second mortgage bonds, who operated the road until the new organization known as the Memphis and Little Rock raileay company was ef-fected. Under this latter co-operation a series of bonds and mortgages were issued to complainants, Matthews, Pierson & Don as trustees, and under the first of which series a substitution was to be had of new styles just received at A. F. Dod & Co. the old first-mortgage bonds of the railroad company. Subsequently a bill was filed in the United States circuit court, at Little Rock, for a foreclosure. Under these and an ancillary proceeding in the United States court at Memphis, in July, 1875, R. K. Dow was appointed receiver, and on the twenty-eighth of April, 1877, Matthews, Pierson and Dow became purchasers under the above pro-ceedings as trustees for the bondholders, and said trustees subsequently conveyed property to the new corporation—"The Mem-phis and Little Rock Railroad Company (as Reorganized)"-and thus, in brief, is present matters, two letters written by his grand father during the Revolutionary war, who was a lieutenant, with the rank of adjutant, in a Connecticut regiment, and was with Wash-ington at Valley Forge during the terrible winter of 1778. The first letter was written on the twenty-third day of March, 1778, and was, therefore, just one hundred years old yes-terday. The letter is written upon Englishstamped paper, is perfectly legible, and in a fair, round hand; the English crown is plainly to be seen in water-lines upon holding the sheet up to the light. The other letter was written in August, 1780, and both are addressed to the young wife of the writer, and although somewhat quaint in style, are well a specialty. These letters remained in to the regular army, but were militiamen called suddenly to defend their firesides and their homes from the attack of the British under the traitor Arnold, who, after his treason, was placed in command of several regiments, and, breathing out threatnings and slaughter against his countrymen, and hav-ing a particular spite against his native State, he was sent there to lay waste and destroy. He burned the town of New London to the ground, and sent about eight hundred men across the river Thames to attack Fort Gris The Helena World, of the twenty-first instant, referring to Mr. George G. For the Public Good.

The old saying, "It's an ill-wind that blows nobody any good," can be applied properly to the grand sale of boots and shoes of Thomas B. Coffey & Co.'s stock. That which has been a misfortune to the few has been as misfortune to the few has been as misfortune to the meany, for the saving in price is so marked that people wonder if it is real. When you reason at times how it times of such stringency as now, you will find it possible only by the almost nameless attractions which are offered in reductions of standard market prices. The people are close observers, and can appreciate a special bargain readily. This has been the cause of the great and continued runh during the past week for bargains to the Bankrupt shoe store, No. 344 Main street. Ocean Travel. The measure of our prosperity in matte financial may be found in the increase of European travel. With the accumulation of for the examination of the curious in such wealth comes the desire to see those old hismade us familiar. Nothing so improves general education as travel; nothing tends so essentially to enlarge our ideas. Familiarty with men and manners, with grades of civilization, with the arts and industrial sciences, is necessary for a well-educated man. In the olden time, when a voyage to Europe was at-ended not only with danger and discomfort, but necessitated a sea voyage of several weeks, many were deterred from making the trip by reason of timidity. But nowadays one can be lodged as comfortably, and can satisfy his gastronomic tastes as perfectly, on one of the well-appointed steamers of the Inman line as at any first-class hotel, and is as as-

Mrs. Dr. Cutter's Departure from Mem-EDITORS APPEAL - Mrs. A. E. Cutter, M. D., entertained her friends at her rooms, 195 Main street, last evening, in a style peculiarly her own, which manner possesses an inexpressible charm—a something which attracts our love instantaneously. A dignity hovers round her and ennobles every action. What is it? Simply this: her freedom from selfishness and the true interest she manifests in suffering humanity. She is truly a woman of culture, and the position she has established in the hearts of the many who have made her ac-quaintance is the best answer to the charges so flippantly made that a woman ceases to be feminine when she turns her brain to account in a practical, honorable and capable way. Her leave-taking was heartfelt and sincere. In bidding her farewell, it is almost unnecessary to wish her friends in her new field of labor, for these she is sure to find springing up in her path like daises on the hillside. May God bless her, is the prayer of her many admirers. ADDITIONAL RIVER NEWS. ONE, IN BEHALF OF MANY.

MEMPHIS, March 23, 1878. Union Sunday-School Picnic. inches. Weather clear and warm.

EDITORS APPEAL-The subject of having a grand union Sunday-school picnic in the month of May has been agitating several schools in the city. The idea seems to meet with universal approbation from the Sunday-school pupils, and only needs a little more talk and encouragement from the superin-tendents to carry it out. The expenses that have heretofore been incidental to the indi-vidual picnics would be lessened, and the pleasure and enjoyment of all increased ten-fold. Any of the railroads would run excursion trains to some pleasant country resort, and all together it could be made a most enjoyable and interesting affair. The programme should consist of a band to furnish sacred music, orations, singing, and every-thing that would add to the general pleasure of the occasion. Let it be a grand galaxy o mutual recognition, intercourse and praises to God by all the Protestant Sunday-schools of the city. Each school should appoint an orator from among its young men to represent them, and it should be done early in order to give the representatives ample time to prepare their effusions. No one should be allowed on the trains except invited guests, who should be furnished with tickets. To avoid confusion, each school should have their separate tables. To-day the subject should be discussed at all the Sunday-schools, and the superintendents of those that wish to participate meet Tuesday

AD. STORM, Sup't. fashion) that most, if not all, of the ordinary and most-sought-for pleasures of metropolitan society are both irreligious in tendency and irrational in practice. Amusement, association, pleasure, are as essential to the life youth as pure air and bright sunshine.

Some folks have gray hairs, Some folks do, some folks do, A brooding o'er their cares, But that's not me nor you. Long live the merry, merry heart That laughs by night and day, Like the queen of mirth. No matter what some folks say."

The old song most admirably represen the natural state of mind in youth, and all who expect to see youth exchange smiles for continual sighs, laughter for lam-entation, songs for chants of sorrow, gaiety toric landmarks with which our early studies for thoughts of the grave, and music for me ancholy, expect that which is contrary to the order of nature, and which would be as sad FOR LOUISVILLE AND CINCINNATI. a sight as the misery and madness of the gentle "Ophelia." Youth is no time for tears, but for happiness. It is no season for sorrow, but for enjoyment of the many pleas-ures which the hand of a beneficent creator has strewn around his path alone. It is his destiny, then, as well as his natural desire, to "chase folly as it flies." But, Mr. Editor, to return to my text, it is the purpose of the present writer to suggest to the young people of Memphis an amusement which conadvocate the establishment of an archer club, for practice with the bow and arrow Archery is an art which possesses all th beautiful glamour of antiquity, together with all the delightful charm of novelty. The practice recalls the desperate conflicts of an ient times, the romatic adventures of Robin Hood and his merry men in Lincoln green. The bow and arrow were the first of all weapons in the chase and in war, and are still in use among the American Archery is an amusement which combines practice of skill, grace and out-door exercise. t has all the strong excitement, with none of the baneful effects of the dance. It is, in fact, just that species of excitement which stimulates the blood into a quicker movement, strengthens the muscles, recuperates will substitute the brisk activity of a beautiful and graceful art for the inane and unre-deemed stupidity of croquet and other games now so much is vogue. The formation of an archery club will bring together, for social intercourse, coteries of young gentlemen and ladies who now lisp nonsensical nothings between the pauses of the waltz, or stroll round and round in an unending serpentine train and breathe the fetid atmosphere of the ballroom. Our word for it, the presence of nature and the influence of her beauties will of itself prove beneficial, and furnish themes for deasant conversation to brains and tongues ong unaccustomed to such inspirations of thought. One word further, and this to the ladies: This sport is one which is peculiarly suited to the nature and disposition of the fair sex. To own a "beau," to pull him whither she desires, to use the "arrows'

At any rate, I most respectfully commend the idea to the consideration of the fair, and hope they will lend their aid to the formation of an EXCITEMENT:
